UM DELTA GAMMA SENIORS TO BE 2 OF 10 NATIONAL CONSULTANTS

MISSOULA—

Two graduating seniors from the University of Montana chapter of the Delta Gamma sorority were recently selected to travel as collegiate development consultants next year.

Stephanie Weiskopf and Libby Zinke will travel to various Delta Gamma chapters in the United States and Canada, advising and assisting on day-to-day matters throughout the 2008-2009 school year.

A record total of 150 Delta Gamma members applied for the positions, and out of the 20 women who received interviews, half were chosen to be consultants.

Weiskopf, an organizational communications major and international development minor, served as a Delta Gamma representative to the UM Panhellenic Council, made up of two members from each sorority. She has been involved in the UM Advocates, Ursa Major program, Student Help Advisory Council and recently helped start a new student group – Ursa Servitas. The goal of “US” is to support student groups by attending events ranging from the Bachelor of Fine Arts senior thesis exhibition to Lady Griz games. Weiskopf is originally from Phoenix.

Zinke, a cellular and molecular biology major, has held numerous posts throughout her four years in Delta Gamma including vice president of membership and member education and director of public relations. Zinke also was a peer advisor and teaching assistant in chemistry. She is a Montana native from Missoula.

Zinke and Weiskopf will go through three weeks of intensive training this summer at the national headquarters in Columbus, Ohio, before attending the Delta Gamma national conference in California and going to their assignments.
